These guidelines serve to ensure consistent and proper use of all brand elements that define and communicate the Men of Iron brand. Please review them carefully and follow their recommendations.

The Men of Iron brand signature consists of both design elements and custom type.

Consistent and exact use of the signature maintains a unified appearance throughout our brand. The design elements and type relationship have been carefully customized as a cohesive whole, and should be used as vector artwork from the digital files provided.

They should never be modified in any way.

A buffer zone provides relief to the signature, visually distancing it from other elements that might confuse its clarity. This area allows the signature to stand apart from its surroundings and facilitates rapid recognition.

Certain minimum distances between the signature and other graphic elements must be maintained to ensure consistency and clear legibility.

The illustration at left indicates the minimum space around the signature that should remain free of other elements. The buffer zone is based on the height of the plus in the wordmark.

The rule is applicable to all official versions of the logo.

► BRAND MISUSE ◀

Care should be taken to observe as many areas of this standards guide as possible.

Logo misuse not only doesn't help strengthen Men of Iron's visual voice, but it can actually be detrimental to well being of the Men of Iron brand.
